

How PIP points work

Two parts, counted apart

Daily living and mobility are scored separately. Eight points in one part pays the standard rate of that part. Twelve points in that same part pays the enhanced rate. Points from daily living do not top up mobility.

On the 2026/27 rates in this catalogue, daily living is £76.70 or £114.60 a week, and mobility is £30.30 or £80. Savings and wages do not change the amount.

The test

A diagnosis does not set the rate. The test is what you can do safely, to an acceptable standard, as often as you need to, and in a reasonable time, on more than half of days.

You do not pick the descriptor

The form asks what happens. A decision maker chooses the descriptor. Scotland uses Adult Disability Payment for a new adult claim, not this points table from DWP.
